

Contents

Figures and Tables	ix
Transcription Conventions	xi
Acknowledgements	xiii
Contributors	xv
Introduction	xix
Marisa Cordella and Hui Huang
Part 1: Setting the Scene: Many Cultures, Many Opportunities
1 The Immigrant Potential: Multiculturalism, Language Skills and Community Resources	3
Marisa Cordella
2 Contemporary Intergenerational Relationships	25
Susan Feldman, Harriet Radermacher and Colette Browning
3 Community Resources on our Doorstep: Language Learning in Action	37
Hui Huang and Marisa Cordella
Part 2: Constructing Identity: The Self-Presentation of Older Native Speakers
4 Taking a Stance: Older Native Speakers with Young Language Learners	51
Marisa Cordella

5	The Migration Experience and the Ethos of Self Brigitte Lambert and Marisa Cordella	66
6	'Who Are We?' Self-Referencing in Chinese and German Conversations Using the First Person Plural Hui Huang and Yanying Lu	85
7	Creating, Maintaining and Challenging Rapport Across Languages and Age Groups Marisa Cordella and Cecilia Kokubu	110
8	'I feel very happy that I can contribute to society': Exploring the Value of the Project for Older People Harriet Radermacher, Colette Browning and Susan Feldman	149
Part 3: Situated Learning: Enhancing the Opportunities for L2 Students
9	Gaining L2 Self-Confidence in Conversations with Native Speakers Hui Huang	171
10	Developing Interactional Competence in Dyadic Conversations: Cross-language Evidence Hui Huang	187
11	An Innovative Model for Second Language Learning and Social Inclusion Hui Huang, Marisa Cordella, Colette Browning and Ramona Baumgartner	226
	Index	239