

Boxes and figures

Journal of Economic Surveys (2015) Vol. 29, No. 1, pp. 1–10

Guido Hülsmann is a professor of economics at the University of Applied Sciences, Hamburg, Germany. He is also a senior research fellow at the Leibniz Institute for Economic Research, Berlin. His research interests include the theory of the firm, the theory of the firm, and the political economy of financial markets. More information about his work is available at www.guido-huelsmann.de.

Journal of Economic Surveys (2015) Vol. 29, No. 1, pp. 1–10

Guido Hülsmann is a senior research fellow at the University of Applied Sciences, Hamburg, Germany. He is also a senior research fellow at the Leibniz Institute for Economic Research, Berlin. His research interests include the theory of the firm, the theory of the firm, and the political economy of financial markets. More information about his work is available at www.guido-huelsmann.de.

Box

1 The three prongs of neoclassical economics 3

Figures

- 5.1 Value of household production relative to conventional GDP in 2008 (replacement cost estimates) 64
- 5.2 Changing social norms about mothers' employment: UK 1991–1999 68
- 5.3 The “care diamond” 70
- 6.1 Prospect Theory 81
- 7.1 Segregation emerging from ‘non-discriminatory’ preferences 98
- 7.2 Segregation with different utility functions 99